The Kunos range is foodsafe

The Kunos oil range is certified food safe so can be used with confidence on benches, chopping boards, bowls, spoons etc that come in direct contact with food. While some savvy clients have enquired about it containing Isoaliphates and orange oil, these are used as solvents. The Isoaliphates have no sensitising effects and are used in the production of cosmetics and for the cleaning of food. While the Orange oil that is used is only in food grade quality. These are not considered to be harmful when in direct contact with people, plants or animals. Click here for the certificate

Wild Things aims to be a large-scale community project. Although they're listed as an 'organic grocer', they're more like an holistic supermarket. They stock almost anything you'll find in your average supermarket, only you're guaranteed it has been farmed or sourced ethically, sustainably, and organically. Things like ice cream, burger patties, a huge selection of cheeses, whole chickens, vinegars and oils, herbs and spices, frozen and dry foods. Even pancake mix!

It's a great feeling to have our fruit and veg table installed. What a journey! Lovingly hand crafted by our freinds Tom and uncle Ulli using sustainable ash from a local mill, Australian ply and finished off with natural oils... Building ethically from the ground up sure takes time but not long now till it will be alive with tasty organic and local goodness!!
